DCS Fast Pass for Urgent Child Care

- Typical Child Care requests can only be made Monday- Friday 8am to 5pm

- The Child Care Administration and DCS created a Fast Pass for activating child care on nights, weekends and holidays
- To prevent removal, ensure child safety or stabilize a placement and Urgent Child Care Referral can be used to authorize a child care setting
Fast Pass for AHCCCS, SNAP and TANF

- DCS and Division of Benefits and Medical Eligibility (DMBE) created a fast pass for families in crisis to prevent removal and ensure child safety.
- Families needing urgent access to medical/behavioral health services (AHCCCS), cash assistance (TANF) or nutritional assistance (SNAP) can access the fast pass.
- DCS and the family can utilize a “Fast Pass” by calling together to apply and interview over the phone for services to speed up the eligibility process.
- The Fast Pass does not guarantee eligibility but does speed up the time it takes to apply and interview and avoids long waits in DES offices.

Practice Guidelines
Choosing Guardianship as a Permanency Plan

Engage family members in permanency decisions
- Define key terms when discussing the permanency plan. Don’t use unfamiliar jargon or acronyms.
- Be clear and honest about your obligation to secure permanency for the child. Explain that if reunification with the parents is not possible, you need to place the child with a new permanent family through adoption or guardianship.
- Communicate frequently with all family members so they are informed on the permanency plan and the agency’s intentions.
- Assess the unique needs of the child and prospective caregivers, and discuss the different resources that will be available for each permanency plan option to ensure all parties are making an informed decision.
- Explain the differences between adoption and guardianship to older children and listen to the youth’s thoughts and wishes.

There are benefits to guardianship when reunification and adoption have been ruled out.
- Guardianship can increase a child’s sense of normalcy by retaining the original family roles, such as grandparent and grandchild.
- Birth parents can remain involved in the child’s life, if appropriate. If parental rights are not terminated or relinquished, the parents may retain rights to visit the child and to consent to adoption.
- Guardianship can be less traumatic for parents, and help retain dignity.
- Parents may agree to guardianship, which avoids difficult contested termination (TPR) hearings and achieves permanency more quickly.
- Relatives who do not want the parents’ rights terminated, or are hopeful that the parents will be able to change and assume parenting in the future, may feel more comfortable with guardianship.
- A child 12 and over must consent to adoption and guardianship. A child may be unwilling to consent to adoption, but agree to guardianship.
- In some situations, guardianship is the only alternative for children who might otherwise remain in out-of-home care without permanency.
- A significant person in the child’s life may not want to adopt, but may be willing to be a guardian.

Consider the impacts to the child, parents, and guardian when determining which plan is in the child’s best interest.
- Provide children with age-appropriate information on adoption and guardianship to prepare them to voice their preferences.
- Reunification is the preferred permanency option, when it can be achieved safely and within a timeframe that meets the child’s needs.
- Adoption is a more permanent option than guardianship, and provides a lifelong legal relationship between the child and adoptive parent.
- Consider the needs and wishes of each child in a sibling group, particularly about maintaining sibling connections. An older sibling may prefer guardianship because of existing relationships, but adoption of a sibling by a different family often results in long-term sibling separation.
- Adoption subsidy provides more financial aid and support services than are offered through guardianship subsidy. For example, guardians must apply for AHCCCS for the child and renew their eligibility yearly, while AHCCCS is provided through adoption subsidy.
- Juvenile court-ordered permanent guardianship continues until the child is an adult. Guardians must be prepared to care for the child until adulthood.
- DCS services for the parents to help them achieve reunification will end when guardianship is ordered. If the parents want to regain custody of the child, they will need to seek services on their own.
- Permanent guardianship may require some court and agency follow-up. Usually this is a one-time home visit a year after the guardianship is finalized. Sometimes the court may order additional follow-up by DCS and/or additional court hearings. Make sure the caregiver is able and willing to participate in future home visits.

Guardianship may be more culturally respectful.

- Historical oppression and other influences on cultural values may impact a caregiver’s view on adoption as a permanency option.
- Explain the goal of permanency and the available options. Ask the family about their beliefs and consider permanency options consistent with these values.
- Be sensitive to family member’s language, roles, and parenting expectations.
- Guardianship is a more culturally respectful option for many American Indian families.

"...adoption has been practiced in most tribal communities through custom and ceremony. In general, tribes did not practice termination of parental rights...adoption became a negative thing due to forced assimilation policies; it was used as a tool to destroy Indian families and culture" (National Indian Child Welfare Association)

Legal Authority and Responsibility

When a permanency goal of guardianship is selected, the DCS Specialist may file a motion for permanent guardianship if:

- A child has been in a relative or foster home for at least nine months as a dependent child. (DCS may request that the court waive the nine month requirement for “good cause,” such as the child lived with the placement prior to entering DCS custody or the prospective guardians are planning to move out-of-state.)
- The prospective guardian has made a commitment to care for the child and ensure the child’s continued safety through transition to adulthood.
- It is determined by the court that guardianship is in the best interest of the child.

Guardianship Subsidy

- Financial supports (guardianship subsidy payments) are available to a permanent guardian of a child who was in the custody of DCS at the time the permanent guardianship was granted. Once a guardianship is established, the child is no longer eligible for adoption subsidy if the guardian later wants to adopt.
- The DCS Specialist should assist the caregivers with applying for guardianship subsidy once the permanency goal is changed to guardianship.
- To receive these subsidy payments, the guardian must apply for state and federal benefits for which the child may be eligible (SSI, SSA).
- Guardianship subsidy payments do not cover all of the expenses of caring for the child. The DCS Specialist should help the prospective caregivers assess the amount of support they will receive from subsidy payments and state and federal benefits to assure they can meet the basic needs of the child.
- DCS will review the guardianship subsidy each year to assure the guardian remains eligible. The guardian may lose subsidy payments if he/she does not apply for the required federal or state benefits or fails to comply with requirements for receiving guardianship subsidy, if the child no longer lives with them, or if funding is no longer available through the state.

Guardianship maintains family connections

Guardianship increases children’s sense of family stability and allows them to retain rights of association with their family members. Parents, children, and caregivers may feel more comfortable with guardianship because they retain their original roles as grandparent/grandchild, aunt/uncle & nephew/niece, siblings, and parent/child.

Resources for caregivers

- The Adoption & Title 8 Permanent Guardianship Information flyer (CSO-1060A) provides a comparison between adoption and guardianship.
- The Title 8 Guardianship Subsidy pamphlet (CSO-1163A) provides written information on available financial resources for guardians.
- The guardian should apply for AHCCCS for the child to help with medical care.
- Arizona Kinship Support Services assists kin caregivers with identifying community resources in Tucson at (520.323.4476) and in Maricopa County at (480)748-9269. (ArizonaKinship.org)
- In Maricopa County, Duet offers supports to grandparents raising grandchildren including support groups, respite care, and connections with community resources. Contact them at (602) 274-5022 or duetaz.org.
- Classes for caregivers on Adoption and Guardianship and Kinship Foster Care are available by calling any of the above listed agencies.

Established in 1999, Permanent Guardianship provided another option for children to exit foster care.

Allowed guardianship subsidy to be granted after caregiver applied for all other state and federal benefits.

When established, monthly guardianship stipend matched the adoption subsidy amount.
In May 2017, there were 2,737 children living with 1,657 permanent guardians in Arizona.

10,236 children have left foster care for permanent guardianship from 2002-2016.

Annually, an average of 682 children exit foster care for guardianship.
Recent Legislation

- In 2017, SB 1360 passed, allowing permanent guardianship to be approved during a pending dependency petition.

- Prior to this, reunification and adoption had to be ruled out prior to consideration of guardianship.

- This change allowed children to avoid entering foster care if caregivers were granted guardianship instead.
Supports Have Eroded for Guardianship

- TANF
  BEFORE: Guardians could receive TANF child-only assistance
  NOW: Children in a permanent guardianship status are no longer eligible for TANF child-only benefit if their guardian does not also qualify

- Health Care
  BEFORE: If receiving TANF, child was automatically enrolled in AHCCCS
  NOW: Guardians must apply for AHCCCS health coverage and often are not accurately informed of their eligibility

- Lower Subsidy Rates
  BEFORE: Average guardianship subsidy equaled adoption subsidy payments
  NOW: Average guardianship subsidy rates ($380/month) are just over half average adoption subsidy rates ($750/month)
Issues

- Need for clearer policies, practices and processes at all levels
  - DCS, DES, AHCCCS and juvenile courts
  - Confusion over eligibility for AHCCCS

- Lack of consistent information for families considering guardianship
  - Lack of assessment by DCS on what is the most appropriate path for families based on the benefits and risks of each permanency option

- Fiscal disincentives for caregivers to choose guardianship

- Lack of DCS staff support after guardianship is granted

- Youth that are granted guardianship just before they turn 18 lose eligibility for AHCCCS until age 26 and Independent Living Subsidy Program through age 21
  - If these placements are not stable and permanent, the youth may lose out on permanency and financial incentives of remaining in care
Recommendations for DCS

- Additional DCS support after guardianship is granted
  - Create or designate DCS staff positions to support permanent guardians when questions or concerns arise to help stabilize families

- Thorough assessment of permanency options
  - Include in DCS case decision-making processes a thorough assessment of the pros and cons of each permanency option regarding stability and quality of relationship, supports available and child’s future plans and goals

- Information about permanency options
  - Develop and distribute clear and comprehensive information about the different permanency options including adoption, guardianship, and independent living for potential adoptive parents and guardians, youth in foster care, DCS staff, judicial officers, attorneys, CASAs, providers and other stakeholders

- Streamline process similar to adoption subsidy process
  - Allow application for guardianship subsidy before guardianship is granted
  - Automate or assist families with AHCCCS eligibility and enrollment
Additional Recommendations

- Allow conversion of guardianship subsidy to adoption subsidy if guardians adopt after guardianship was granted

- Allow for increase in permanent guardianship subsidy in AZ state budget appropriations

- Explore option of Title IV-E Guardianship Assistance Program
  - Federal dollars could be available for guardianship subsidy if Arizona opted in

- Pass state legislation to extend financial supports to age 21 for adoption and guardianship in recognition of child development science and the challenges of successful transitions to adulthood
SB 1166 – Permanent Guardianship Subsidy
Introduced by Senator Kate Brophy-McGee

- Allows guardians to apply for guardianship subsidy prior to guardianship being granted

- Allows guardians to apply for adoption subsidy if child is adopted after guardianship is granted

After nearly two decades of experience with permanent guardianship in Arizona, it is time to update laws and practices to safeguard children and improve their stability and security.

Abused and neglected children can connect to a permanent and loving family through “Permanent Guardianship.” This is another option in addition to adoption or reunification that allows children to live with people they know and trust, avoid moving from one foster care placement to another, and maintain a safe connection with their birth family and culture.

Permanent guardianship is established when the court appoints an adult who is given legal responsibility and assumes the rights of care, custody, and supervision of a child under the age of 18 outside of the foster care system.

History of Permanent Guardianship in Arizona: In 1999, Arizona passed a law to allow for permanent guardianship (A.R.S. §8-871) under certain conditions for a child in foster care. It requires the juvenile court to order a report within one year to assess the safety and condition of the child and determine if there are any service needs. A permanent guardianship subsidy was also established in A.R.S. §8-814 that allows the Department of Child Safety (DCS) to provide a subsidy to an applicant after the guardian applicant has applied for all other state and federal benefits.

Recent State Legislative Action in Permanent Guardianship: In 2017, the Arizona legislature passed SB 1360 to allow the juvenile court to establish a permanent guardianship for a child who is the subject of a pending dependency petition filed by DCS. Prior to this change in state law, family reunification and adoption had to be ruled out as permanency options in order for permanent guardianship to be considered a case plan option. Effective August 9, 2017, A.R.S. §8-871 allows the court to waive consideration of adoption before a guardianship can be considered.
The Supports for Permanent Guardianship Have Eroded: When the permanent guardianship law was passed in 1999, the monthly stipend amount for permanent guardianship was similar to the adoption subsidy maintenance payment. Today, children in a permanent guardianship have less access to benefits than when the program was established. This includes:

(1) Children in a permanent guardianship status are no longer eligible for the TANF child-only benefit if their guardian family does not qualify based on the total family income;
(2) For AHCCCS health coverage, guardians must apply themselves and are often not accurately informed about eligibility; and
(3) Permanent guardianship subsidies are no longer similar, but are far lower, than the adoption subsidy maintenance payment.

Optional Financial Supports Available

In 2008, Congress passed the Fostering Connections Act (P.L. 110-351) that offers federal financial assistance to states that opt in to the Guardianship Assistance Program (GAP) of Title IV-E of the Social Security Act. Arizona has not opted in to this entitlement program.

Practice Issues: Problems and Concerns: Permanent guardianship can offer a positive alternative when family reunification is not in the best interests of the child. Today, there are a range of circumstances that are weakening the guardianship option and diminishing children's security.

- There is a substantial need for clearer policies, consistent practices and easier processes for permanent guardianship at all levels, including at DCS, DES, AHCCCS, and the juvenile courts.
- There are fiscal disincentives for a family to choose guardianship if they are a licensed foster home and doing so may impact the ability of the caregiver to adequately provide for the child.
- DCS does not provide specific staff support to assist in stabilizing placements by answering questions or addressing concerns that may arise after a permanent guardianship is in place as DCS does for those receiving adoption subsidy.
- There is no comprehensive and consistent information available on guardianship that clearly explains the role, responsibilities and resources available to permanent guardians.
- Some guardians are confused about AHCCCS health insurance eligibility; in part because DCS staff and Department of Economic Security (DES) staff who determine eligibility for AHCCCS have provided inconsistent and sometimes erroneous information to guardians.
Currently, subsidized guardianship and adoption subsidy work very differently from one another. Guardians have to apply for their guardianship subsidy and for AHCCCS after the guardianship is already approved by the court; whereas for adoption subsidy, the adoptive parent applies for subsidy prior to the court approval of the adoption, and DCS staff do the work to assure AHCCCS enrollment for the adopted child. This creates a gap in support for permanent guardianship families that can hurt the children in their care.

State law restricts the ability of guardians to seek the lifetime commitment to a child through adoption and receive an adoption subsidy. Currently A.R.S. §8-143 limits eligibility for adoption subsidy to “Foster parents who are interested in adopting a child in their home or any other persons interested in adopting a child under public or private agency care.” Children in a permanent guardianship are no longer in foster care or under public or private agency care.

A thorough permanent guardianship assessment is not consistently completed for children in foster care to determine the bond between the child and the prospective guardian and the benefits and risks for each permanency path.

Youth who move from foster care to permanent guardianship just before they turn 18 lose the ability to have AHCCCS (Medicaid) coverage until age 26 and lose eligibility for the financial supports of the state’s Independent Living Subsidy Program up to age 21. These benefits are important to young adults without permanent family connections and should be weighed against the benefits of establishing a permanent guardianship – especially in cases when the youth is close to turning 18 and when the connection with the guardian is not strong and may not create a permanent family.

Guardians do not have access to DCS case management services on an as needed basis that could help to stabilize permanent guardianship placements and prevent possible disruptions.
RECOMMENDED NEXT STEPS

- Amend A.R.S. §8-814 to permit prospective guardians to apply to DCS and get approval or disapproval for a guardianship subsidy before the court decision to approve a permanent guardianship.

- Automate AHCCCS eligibility and enrollment for children moving to permanent guardianship as is currently in place for those children placed by DCS for adoption.

- Amend A.R.S. §8-143 to allow guardians to adopt children in their care and receive an adoption subsidy.

- Pass a state FY 2019 budget that increases the permanent guardianship subsidy to strengthen family stability.

- Explore through DCS and the Governor’s Office the programmatic as well as financial benefits of accepting the Title IV-E Guardian Assistance Program (GAP) option.

ADDITIONAL ACTION STEPS

- Create or designate DCS staff positions to support permanent guardians when questions or concerns arise to help stabilize families.

- Pass state legislation to extend financial supports to age 21 for adoption and guardianship in recognition of child development science and the challenges of successful transitions to adulthood.

- Include in DCS case decision-making processes a thorough assessment of the pros and cons of each permanency option regarding stability and quality of relationship, the programmatic and financial supports available, and the child’s future plans and goals.

- Develop and distribute clear and comprehensive information about the different permanency options including adoption and guardianship as well as independent living for potential adoptive parents and guardians, youth in foster care, DCS staff, judicial officers, attorneys, CASAs, providers, and other stakeholders.

All Parties Need to Be Involved in Guardianship Decision-Making and Be Connected to the Available Resources

The Taylors signed guardianship documents for Jackie, their 13 year old niece, without the understanding of what guardianship was or how it worked; they did not understand that they could not be licensed as foster parents if they were guardians of the child. The DCS case manager stated to the family that she needed to get the family off of her caseload. The Taylors never applied and did not receive guardianship subsidy. They did not know they could apply for AHCCCS. They did not understand how to get any help for Jackie.
Young People Who Lived in Foster Care Need Support for Post-Secondary Education

HB 2482 - Tuition Waivers for Foster Youth

Help youth from foster care go to college by permanently establishing the Tuition Waiver Program at Arizona state universities and community colleges. Otherwise, the current five-year Pilot Program will expire on June 30, 2018.¹

HB 2482 will continue the Tuition Waiver Program for Foster Youth at state universities and community colleges. Eligibility criteria continues to include that the student from foster care:

- Be a U.S. citizen or a noncitizen who is lawfully present;
- Have total personal assets, not including scholarships or grants that are worth less than $10,000;
- Complete a Free Application for Federal Student Aid (FAFSA); and
- Remain in good standing with the policies established by the university or community college at which the person is enrolled.

HB 2482 provides the following improvements to support students from foster care:

- Increases the age of eligibility to 26 from 23 which recognizes that many young people from foster care need more time to complete their college degree program. Only 33% of Arizona’s foster youth enrolled in grade 12 graduated from high school in 2012/13, compared to 78% for non-system involved youth.²
- Decreases the age of eligibility from 16 to 13 for a youth who was in foster care or adopted from foster care which recognizes that the FAFSA application considers these young people independent and responsible for their own costs of education.
- Requires tuition costs and mandatory fees be applied at universities before other federal and public grants and scholarships which recognizes the additional costs of education (including housing, meals, transportation, books, and class fees) remain a significant barrier to college completion for young people from foster care.
- Removes the requirement that the student complete at least 30 hours of volunteer service each academic year as this is an administrative burden on the institutions and difficult to track.
What's important to know:

- From spring 2014 through fall 2017, $810,028 in tuition costs and mandatory fees were waived at Arizona community colleges and universities making it possible for 199 students from foster care to go to college.iii

- The Arizona Auditor General Performance Audit stated: "Waiver recipients reported that the waiver positively impacted their ability to attend college and succeed by easing financial constraints. Specifically, waiver recipients reported that pursuing a college education is a vital step in improving their life circumstances and that receiving a waiver helped them attend college when they otherwise might not have been able to afford it."iv

- 2-9% of foster youth earn a college degree by age 26, compared to 46% of non-foster youth.v

- On virtually every measure of economic well-being and career attainment - young college graduates are outperforming their peers with less education.vi People with a bachelor's degree have 82% higher median earnings than those with just a high school diploma.

- Tuition waivers give young people from foster care a chance to pursue a career that will provide them with positive opportunities and higher earnings potential throughout their adult lives.

iii Email from Foster Care to Success to Children’s Action Alliance, November 29, 2017.

SB 1166 – Permanent Guardianship; Subsidy

Abused and neglected children can be connected to lifelong families through an option known as “Permanent Guardianship” which allows children to leave foster care and live with people they already know. After nearly two decades of experience with Permanent Guardianship in Arizona and changes over the years in state practices, SB 1166 will update a couple of laws that will improve children’s stability and security.

- State law currently restricts the ability of guardians to seek the life-time commitment to a child through adoption and receive an adoption subsidy. Currently A.R.S. §8-143 limits eligibility for adoption subsidy to “Foster parents who are interested in adopting a child in their home or any other persons interested in adopting a child under public or private agency care.” Children in a permanent guardianship are no longer in foster care or under public or private agency care.” The bill allows families to move from guardianship to adoption subsidy.

Some guardians receive a subsidy as do most families that adopt children from foster care. Guardianship is chosen as an option for children to leave foster care when the child cannot safely return home or be adopted. Often adoption is ruled out when a child is in foster care because there are not legal grounds for termination of parental rights. But for a few families, circumstances may change, and adoption becomes an option. Adoption is a permanent, lifelong, legal relationship, affords the highest level of security for children, establishes inheritance rights and children are automatically entitled to survivor’s benefits. Once the adoption is final, the court is no longer involved. If the guardian is receiving a subsidy for the child, then the guardian should be permitted to secure their relationship with the child through adoption and be considered for an adoption subsidy.

- A.R.S. §8-143 requires a guardian to seek benefits from other state and federal programs before seeking a permanent guardianship subsidy. DCS has been determining eligibility for guardianship subsidy after the court decision. The bill allows DCS to consider other state and federal program benefits, and determine eligibility for permanent guardianship subsidy before the court decision as DCS does for adoption subsidy. This eases the transition from foster care to guardianship, allows families to know if they are eligible and what the guardianship subsidy will be, and there would be no delay in supporting the child and family.

These two steps make a start in updating and strengthening guardianship policies to make sure families have good options and that they connect with the supports they qualify for to provide stable and permanent homes for children.
