Results of Service

The Housing Assistance Program improves the ability of the Arizona Department of Economic Security to ensure safety, permanency, and well-being for children who are the subject of a Child Protective Services (CPS) report and investigation, or participants in an ongoing services case.

Benefits from the Housing Assistance Program provide families who have open Child Protective Services cases with one-time housing and utility assistance in order to provide for health, safety, and shelter needs when assistance is not available through other programs.

The Housing Assistance Program is available for families whose lack of safe and adequate housing is a significant barrier to family preservation or family reunification.

An estimated $21,419,483 would have been expended by DES to pay for foster care maintenance, if the 3,587 children who benefited from the Housing Assistance Program during state fiscal year 2007 had entered or remained in foster care for the length of time housing assistance was provided to each family. Based on the state fiscal year 2007 Housing Assistance Program Expenditures of $1,712,428 there is a cost avoidance of $19,707,055.
